

CLOCKWORK RECORDS

SOCIOPATH

The story of this MC dates as far back as a child born of evil incarnate from such an unfortunate and traumatic childhood that his recent presence in the local scene is causing a spectacle of shock and awe. This doctor of doom known only as Sociopath administers lethal doses of horror-themed rap music through his new EP The Poison In The Pudding, scheduled to drop at the end of October, on the darkened doorstep of Halloween.

With roots anchored firmly under the murky floors of the River City, concept character Sociopath was raised by his mother, a strict Seventh Day Adventist who sent him to several mental institutions during his adolescence. At the hands of abusive social workers he was strapped down in a ward with no windows and given deep-sleep therapy and shock treatment. This left him deeply scarred, institutionalised and damn near psychotic.

It is in the nature of sociopaths to lack the ability to experience empathy, love and compassion for others. With no moral conscience, committing violent crimes to get their way is done in cold-blooded malice without the bearings for what is right and wrong. Holding little to no value for quality of life, Sociopath lustfully craves the purge of blood and strewn flesh. In his late teens he escaped, finding refuge with indie label, Clockwork Records which harboured and developed the savant-like talents of the demonic deacon unleashing his fiendish death rap to those who dare witness.

The sick and twisted artist's grinding perseverance on the mic pays off with the release of his initial EP. The rapper strokes well-painted rhymes with hoarse vocals in blood-red psychopathic verses, revealing the true place for this talented savant is the studio. Locked in with the deafening beats of our scene's dopest producers banging into his head, prompting an audio bloodbath not fit for public play.

In dismissive disregard for public outcry and picketing demand for The Poison In The Pudding to be shut down, the record will be released on October 31. Sociopath's first live appearance, (coming soon) will not be for the faint-hearted! The fearsome artist will inflict masochistic rhymes with wounding lacerations and promises to be a hellova hiphop show. With hardcore intent, Sociopath's horrorcore rap comes cold-blooded, merciless and strictly dope.

The Poison In The Pudding EP will be available through Clockwork Records on October 31st from just $5 through most independent music stores and online at iTunes and VCclothing.com.

www.myspace.com/sociopathaus

Tristan Pearson
Managing Director
Ph: 0409 521 358

tristan@clockworkrecords.com.au
www.clockworkrecords.com.au
www.myspace.com/clockworkrecordsoz